CHARGE SHIP'S SKIPPER WITH INEFFICIENCY

Navy Formally Accuses Capt. Charles McVay III of Negligence in Loss of Cruiser

STILL BEING PROBED

Washington, Dec. 3—(AP)—The navy formally accused Capt. Charles B. McVay III today of negligence and culpable inefficiency in the loss of the 10,000-ton cruiser Indianapolis in the closing days of the war. He is a native of Ephrata, Pa.

The charges were prepared for the opening sessions of a general Washington Navy Yard to try the court martial convened at the 47-year-old son of a retired admiral.

Every man aboard the Indianapolis was a casualty when enemy action sent her to the bottom of the Philippine sea last July 30. Dead or missing totaled 880, the wounded 316.

Signed by Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, the charges made public for the first time as the seven-man military tribunal convened, accused McVay of:

1. Through negligence suffering a vessel of the navy to be hazarded

2. "Simplifiable inefficiency in the performance of duty."

Under the first charge, the captain was accused specifically of neglecting "to cause zigzag course to be steered" through the area in which enemy submarines "might be encountered."

Under the second charge, he was accused of failing, after being informed that the ship was in a sinking condition, "to issue and see effected such timely orders as were necessary to cause said vessel to be abandoned, as it was his duty to do."

As the court-martial opened, counsel for Captain McVay challenged the first of the two charges—negligence in that the officer neglected to put the cruiser on a zigzag course through submarine-infested waters.

The defense said "the first charge fails to state an offense, it merely sets out a conclusion."

The challenge sent the court into private sessions and after a ten-minute conference Admiral Wilder Baker announced that the challenge had been rejected and the court-martial would proceed on the original charges.

Counsel for the accused, when asked if he was ready to proceed, requested a postponement of one day to complete the preparation of his case, and the court adjourned until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

As result, the specifications set forth, "many persons on board perished with the sinking of said vessel."

The heavy cruiser—which had just completed a special, high speed run from San Francisco to Guam to deliver atomic bomb material—was traveling unescorted to Leyte in the Philippines when disaster struck.

Shortly after midnight on July 30 a terrific explosion blasted the Indianapolis. She sank within 15 minutes.

In an interview with Associated Press Reporter Morrie Landsberg in a Philadelphia hospital last August, McVay said his guess was:

GM Charged With Having Monopoly

Detroit, Dec. 3—(P)—The CIO United Automobile Workers today asked U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark to investigate General Motors Corp. With a view to anti-trust prosecution, contending GM's control of a large part of the supply of fuel pumps for the industry constitutes a monopoly.

The request was made by R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, in a telegram which stated that "control of a single vital item gives General Motors Corp. a control over its competitors that is contrary to the public interest."

Some 225,000 General Motors employees are idle in a nation wide strike by the union to enforce its demand on GM for a 30 per cent wage increase within the corporation's present price structure.

Homes Badly Needed Here
But Construction Is Down

At the present time Warren has the greatest scarcity of homes and apartments for rent ever in its history. Times-Mirror advertisements reflect the fact that homes and apartments are so scarce that many are offering rewards to any person who can supply them with a home.

During the war years there has been practically no home building in either the city or in contiguous territory and numbers of homes have been arranged so that two families are occupying a house designed for but one family.

NEW RENTAL UNITS
MUST BE LISTED

Failure to register rental units being rented for the first time may subject the landlord to penalties. Frank S. Anderson, area rent director, said Thursday.

Rent regulations require that such units, even though they be only single rooms in a house that the landlord himself is renting, must be registered within 30 days after the date of rental. The Area Rent office is then required to review the case to determine if the rent is in line with the rent for comparable accommodations on March 1, 1942.

In the event that the Rent office finds it necessary to reduce a new rental property registered the order takes effect at the beginning of the next rental period, and is not retroactive. Rent reductions for units not properly registered, however, are made retroactive to the date of first rental.

RUSSELL

Russell, Nov. 29—Members of the S. E. W.-So Club surprised Mrs. Lawrence Briggs with a house-warming party at her home Wednesday evening, November 28. Mrs. Elburn Briggs arranged the entertainment and Mrs. Robert Huntley and Mrs. Hugh McKelvey were in charge of the refreshments. Mrs. Briggs received a beautiful walnut magazine rack from the group. Attending the party were Mrs. Elton Anderson, Mrs. Harry Baker, Mrs. Elburn Briggs, Mrs. Theodore Engle, Mrs. Richard Enos, Mrs. Robert Huntley, Mrs. Hugh McKelvey, Mrs. Scott Phillips, Mrs. Ray Schields and Mrs. Lawrence Briggs.

The Ladies Aid Circle meeting was held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Ver Milyea with a large attendance. Mrs. Wiltzie presided. It was voted to give the men's Bible Class $25 to purchase something for their new room. Reports were given from the bazaar held election day, the amount was over $100. The Christmas party will be held at the church with a turkey dinner.

The Women's Benefit Association was held at the home of Mrs. Jay Wiltzie Monday evening with fourteen members and two guests present. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Mabel Sechrist; vice-president—Hazel Thompson; past president—Nellie Wiltzie; secretary and treasurer—Inez Lewis; financial secretary, Inez Lewis; chaplain—Kate Sadler. Following the meeting, a social time with games and refreshments were enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Dennis Kingsley Dec. 17th for the Christmas party.

The Firemen's Auxiliary meeting was held at the Firemen's hall Tuesday evening with twenty members present, one new member was enrolled, Mrs. Shield. Delicious refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. Baxter, Mrs. Bigoney and Mrs. Bailey. The Christmas party will be held Dec. 19th at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Elwin Safford. Members are requested to bring a 25-cent gift. A committee was appointed to pack baskets for the sick.

Barbara Perrigo, Dorothy Way and Barbara Thompson spent the weekend with the former's relative.

Local Women
To Be Honored
By Red Cross

Over 70 Pennsylvania women will be honored by the American Red Cross when their names will be inscribed on a national roll of honor in recognition of their having served 2,000 or more hours as nurses aides in hospitals throughout the State.

Three from Warren are among these honored few. They are Mrs. Joyce Blair, Mrs. Ruth L. Brown and Mrs. Mabel E. Proud. All have served over 2,000 hours. The list is headed by Mrs. Joseph Colman of Pittsburgh who is credited with over 6,000 hours service. Her name tops the list of 251 aides living in the Eastern Area, includes 7 States and the District of Columbia. Her closest rival in Pennsylvania is Mrs. Samuel Fernberger of Philadelphia who is credited with 4,000 hours.

Runners-up in the Eastern Area are four aides with 5,000 hours each: Mrs. Lucille Ingram of Anderson, Indiana; Mrs. Julianne Kovach of Whiting, Indiana; Mrs. Hattie Kangisser of Cleveland and Mrs. Louise Cohen of Staunton, Va. Mrs. Ingram's service was cited as unusual because she totaled her 5,000 hours in only two years. Capped in August, 1944, she has been a resident aide on 24-hour call at Wakeman General Hospital since her husband was killed in Italy in 1944.

Wakeman Hospital at Camp Atterbury, Indiana, is the only general hospital in the United States that still has resident Red Cross Aides. During the war it gained an unusual record with as many as 65 resident volunteers a month.

Eleven women from Pennsylvania were credited with 3,000 or more hours and 63, including three from Warren, with 2,000 hours or more.

The frigate Constitution got her nickname during her victorious battle with the British frigate Guerriere in the War of 1812. American sailors seeing her bounding off her solid oak side dubbed her "Old Ironsides."

MORNING brought new suspicious and finally, fresh horrors.

Moore awakened her early with the first news. The house had been searched the night before. Julia put on a quilted house coat and slippers and went into the salon. The dignified room looked like a drunken outcast. The sight gave an impact of fury and violence. She had a weird fleeting picture of Robey coming back to search for what he had hidden.

"Forget I'm Robey's widow. Frank and just remember I want to help find his murderer. I didn't love him but it wasn't fair that he should lose his life when he loved it so."

"Shall I clean up quickly before the cops come?" Moore asked with a hint of eagerness.

She hesitated. That would face the police now.

"No. Ask the man in the corridor to come here."

Moore's flabby face became bland and he went outside. She wanted to go back to see if he recovered quickly and went back to him and out the back, returning with another guard.

"Nobody's to leave this house," said the first man. The other went to the phone in the foyer.

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir," Moore answered with affected sullenness.

Julia went to her bedroom and walked straight to the dressing table. The paper was still there. She thought of destroying it but couldn't bring herself to do it. It seemed to be important to some.

Virginia and Moore were standing before the Inspector when she entered the salon again.

"At least we can limit the number who could have made the search," he said and Julia wondered how she could ever have thought his mouth betrayed a sense of humor. "Only you the were in the apartment last night and no one came in."

INTERNATIONAL MURDER, INC.

When the top Nazi war criminals were first rounded up, many people urged the Allies to "take 'em out and shoot 'em" and not waste time or dignify the culprits by giving them a formal trial. Fortunately the Allied governments did not heed these requests. And the wisdom of their decision is being strengthened daily as the Nuremberg trial progresses.

The trial not only sets the sensible precedent of regarding as a criminal and punishable offense the deliberate planning of the mass murder which is called war. It not only reveals to the Germans the infamy of the gang whom they chose to lead them. It also kills forever the argument, heard even recently in some quarters, that "Hitler did a lot of good things for the Germans" in the early years of his regime.

The prosecution has unfolded the Nazi war plans step by step, backward from Hitler's connivance with Japan to involve this country in war to the plots against Poland and Czechoslovakia and Austria, and the determination to reoccupy the Rhineland. And as one damning Nazi document after another has been produced, the last possible excuse for any of the Nazis' actions has disappeared.

But there no longer can be any question of his aims, or any good word for his accomplishments. The record shows that Hitler and the criminals now on trial simply picked up the secret, tentative preparations for war which the Junkers had begun soon after the 1918 armistice, and devoted their major energies toward bringing them to fruition, first by deceit and finally by open, arrogant defiance.

No trial in the history of crime and punishment has ever disclosed such a tale of cold-blooded, premeditated slaughter. Its full enormity would seem incredible if it were not for the detailed and secret records kept by these systematic butchers. They are records for all the world to ponder and remember, so that the symptoms may be recognized if another such murderous gang should ever again plot the conquest of a peace-loving world.

HOLIDAY TRAVEL

Christmas won't be entirely merry for those whose plans include train travel. At least, it won't be unless the traveler decides in advance that he is going to make the best of conditions that are almost certain to be crowded and uncomfortable.

Rail travel is at its wartime peak right now. Some 2,000,000 veterans will have arrived in east and west coast ports in November and December, headed for home and civilian life. There is an average of six rail moves for each serviceman during the redeployment process. And when the boys finally start for their home station, virtually all of them travel by train.

Some recent figures put out by the Pullman Co. give a rough idea of a wartime transportation job that is continuing at peak level more than three months after V-J Day. Since Pearl Harbor, Pullman has provided 98 billion passenger miles of service, 44 billion of which were performed for 33,000,000 troops in military movements. That's an average trip of 1300 miles for each serviceman carried.

About two-thirds of all these troops have traveled in sleeping cars. But today, more than 90 per cent of the homeward-bound veterans are being carried in sleepers. Some 895 sleeping cars were transferred from regularly scheduled trains to the military pool last July, and are still there. With the holiday rush just around the corner, 151,000 Pullman sleeping accommodations are available exclusively for the military. That leaves only 57,000 berths for the civilians.

Obviously this is going to drive a lot of would-be Pullman travelers up ahead into the day coaches, where they will sit on the laps and tread on the toes of people who intended to go by day coach in the first place. It is inevitable that a lot of corns and tempers are going to be bruised.

But there probably isn't anything to be done about it. For people are going to travel this Christmas. Thousands, released from war jobs, will be heading for the first family reunion in two or three years. Thousands more, who patriotically refrained from unnecessary travel during the war, will now take that long-promised trip.

It won't all be pleasant. But it won't be so bad if the holiday traveler will remember that the bulk of the best accommodations are reserved for the men and women who best deserve them.

Gad, What a Bountiful Bag of Game!Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It's hardly any time at all since I passed along the prediction that increasing desire for a recess, a vacation for the holidays, would drive Congress to enactment of some of the important pending legislation.

I could have saved some ink. The legislative log jam seems tighter than ever and is being threatened now with something that could prevent its being broken at all before Christmas. That is absenteeism.

It hasn't been long since Democratic Sen. Tydings of Maryland, who lives practically within commuting distance of the Capitol, berated his absent colleagues for not sticking more closely to the legislative halls until pending measures are cleared.

SEVERAL other members have spoken up on the subject—the last Sen. Abe Murdock (D-Utah). During debate on the important Government Reorganization Bill he noted that there only ten senators on the floor.

It was only a few minutes later that Sen. Morse (R-Ore.) pointed out that the few senators present were mostly those "who had come recently from the people" and warned that after another election or two, the people might express their will for a reorganization of Congress by sending men to the Senate who would see it through.

In a last-ditch fight to save the Universal Military Training Bill, Chairman Andrew May had to resort to parliamentary tactics to postpone the showdown until he could rush out wires to get the absentee members back to Washington.

It is that sort of thing that has the whole legislative program gathering dust.

A COMMONPLACE BOOK

Our friends in the Elysian fields of literature (and the playing fields of journalism) seem to have converged upon the laurel thicket with amazing unanimity in the last few weeks. How can we echo the mellifluous fatalism of our Shropshire friend, Alfred Housman—

We'll to the woods no more.
The laurels all are cut.
The bowers are bare of bay
That once the muses wore.

The year draws in the day,
And soon will evening shut.
The laurels all are cut.
We'll to the woods no more.

—how can we echo such beautiful defeatism when several of our practicing lit'ry friends have not only hacked out great wreaths of laurel but jammed them uncroniously down on their own brows?

There's Russell Maloney, for instance. Who can depict at second hand that genial, startling man of letters? He reminds us simultaneously of Jake Falstaff, author of "Reini Kugi," and G. K. Chesterton. If he but wore a cape and had a minute goatee! Yet he would still be exclusively Maloney: too amiable to be sardonic; too honest to be showily paradoxical; too intelligent to be merely witty; all in all, certainly one of New York's most ingratiating personalities in this year, 1945. Saturday evenings at 413 East 50th Street are something to be remembered. Successful people will be there, though Success is not the essential principle; colorful folk of the stage, of literature, of the arts; people whose conversation is provocative and stimulating. They all revolve around the great and friendly Maloney. On the Isle of Captiva in the Gulf of Mexico we once discovered Maloney and his lovely actress wife, Miriam Battista, diligently spotting ordinary seashells with a paintbrush to make them look like the rare Junonias; then planting them where gasping shell-collectors would be sure to pounce upon them.

Maloney's burst into heavy type took a rather curious form after his excellent New Yorker pieces; a profile, or rather a full front-and-rear, of Hattie Carnegie in the November 12 issue of Life. Perhaps you read the article. We didn't because it was Maloney's. Otherwise we should certainly have passed it by; since people like the famed Hattie are drably alike in their methods, their life stories, and especially in the illusion of daintiness with which they seek to surround themselves. We're surprised that the movies, which have full-lengthed everything from ballplayers to Chopin, haven't yet got around to dressmakers. They will. However, Maloney did a characteristic Maloney job, even with such unpromising material; readable, comprehensive, sufficiently ironic, and always astonishingly competent. If you happened to want to know about Hattie, he told you.

Then, after the great Maloney, comes the fabulous McNulty. Some golden evening, when the fevers of life have left us high on the barrens of old age, we shall write, in the manner of T. S. Eliot, a poem entitled "Maloney and McNulty." We promise you it will resound through the years like "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock." McNulty already shows signs of becoming a legend, not so much for his literary accomplishments as for his news-making gambols across the patient American landscape. The saga of McNulty would make hundreds of sticks of eight point type. No doubt that is part of the McNultian intention. But we'd rather not go into details until the doors are fastened, the blinds drawn, and the perfume of opium begins to drift toward the blackened rafters. Meanwhile we have that hap-hazard harlequin, McNulty himself (yet never without a method in his frenetics), whose tale, "Don't Scrub Off Those Names," has just appeared in The Best American Short Stories of 1945.

This is the successor to the famous O'Brien collections, now edited by Martha Foley and published by Houghton Mifflin. The story has to do with some of the Third Avenue characters McNulty has made his own; notably Grogan, the Horseplayer, and his friend, Clancy. There is a dialect which is supposed to be authentic, but may be plain McNulty. It's a good story;

Letters to the Editor

Warren, Pa.
Nov. 29th, 1945.

The Editor,
Times-Mirror,
City

Dear Sir:

The article in Wednesday's issue regarding the civic improvements was well written and showed a real study of different situations in Warren and every one of them should be done to keep our city up to date, clean and convenient.

It is just as necessary to paint a house every two or three years, or add improvement, as it is to build it; otherwise the house gradually declines in value and eventually falls apart. These improvements are known as "Up-keep" and "improvements" in the language of business and if a house or community is to survive, they must be done.

The civic improvements mentioned in the article are of benefit to every one in Warren and should, therefore, be paid by all tax-payers in Warren. These improvements should be first on the list!

Regarding the proposed athletic field as a War Memorial, this is a very fitting tribute to every service man or woman, living or dead. Some people have told me it would eventually pay for itself through revenue from gate receipts, etc. This would be fine and in a matter of a few years it would be paid for. This seems to be a business proposition, or a new investment, and the money for that should be raised by a sale of stock. Athletic events are of no benefit to everyone in Warren and therefore everyone in Warren should not be taxed for them.

I delight in some of the athletic contests and far be it from me to "throw cold water" on a park that would be a living memorial to those that helped keep the spirit of independence in the world above all.

When reading the article it recalled a broadcast on the Catholic Hour about two weeks ago in which the Priest said that conditions had developed in our Christian nation that if the majority of the people voted for a law or change it was put into effect regardless of whether it was right or not. And isn't it true when you see the things that have been done to desecrate our Sabbath or upset the spirit of Independence?

Now, what worries me is that if all these things are put to a vote, the majority of the people will vote for a new civic investment and let the rest of the plant fall to pieces!

Very truly,
Wm. Schwartz.

Hollywood Party Is Most Successful

They really turned folks away at the "Breakfast in Hollywood" party at the Woman's Club Friday night under the auspices of Mrs. Albert Rockwell and her able entertainment committee.

A capacity crowd enjoyed the antics of Bill Rice as the widely renowned Tom Brennan and were envious of K. M. Andrews' luck in receiving the orchid sent for the party by the bonafide Tom Brennan from Hollywood.

A. C. Flick had the role of announcer, presenting a group of Little Theatre players from Jamestown; the Men About Town Orchestra; Fred Printz, Jr., in a Danny Kaye take-off; Theresa Fino, vocalist; Si Davis and Fern Mostert, vocalists, with Mrs. Ed. Bell providing accordion accompaniment.

Interviewed during the evening were Mrs. Wallace Cowden, Mrs. Hugh Jamieson, Mrs. Spencer Myer and Mrs. William Hutchings.

Harriet Lind was the winner of the turkey awarded as a special prize of the evening.

Each one is asked to bring a tureen and sugar, all other items, including dishes, to be provided by the hostesses, Miss Janet Ahlgren, Mrs. Edith Nelson, Mrs. Evelyn Hagstrom, Mrs. Agnes Carlson. Members are also to bring ten-cent gifts for exchange, and are reminded that an offering will be taken for the Klingberg Children's Home in Connecticut.

STUDENT RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY

Feature numbers in the weekly student recital at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday night were saxophone solo by Ralph Brown; vocal solos by Gladys Johnson and Mary Mangus, and a clarinet solo by Jerry Aurillo.

Pups heard in piano selections were Peggy Peterson, Patricia Caldwell, Josephine Garber, Faith Landerdahl, John Kahle, Marjorie Ann Nicholson, Marcia Stevens and Geraldine Peterson.

SCHOOL GROUP GUESTS FOR DRESS REHEARSAL

Director Betty Rice will put her cast of "Nine Girls" through its dress rehearsal at 8:30 this evening at the Woman's Club, with members of the Warren High School Dramatic Club as guests of the Post-Graduate Medical School. They will return next weekend.

It will interest many friends of Mrs. W. E. Rice, Maple Place, to know that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Stubbs, have come from Jamestown to make their home in Warren.

Mrs. Ardell Saylor, Redwood street, is spending the week in Cleveland, O., visiting her sister, Mrs. K. E. Carlson.

Friends will be pleased to know that Harold Ross, 307 Hazel street, has been taken home from Warren General Hospital.

Mrs. Marion Lubold, 14 Gladie avenue, fell while coming out of the United Brethren church on Sunday and received a laceration on the right side of her face and forehead that required emergency treatment at Warren General Hospital.

This Friday, members will have their regular supper at six o'clock and lodge at eight.

DON'T LET SOAP SHORTAGES GET WORSE You can help!

Keep saving used fats to help prevent further cuts in your soap supply

As long as our country's supply of industrial fats is so low, the government must determine how much fat can be released to make soap and other peacetime goods.

Any let-down in your saving of used kitchen fats will make our fat supply even less...and the amount allowed for soap manufacture may have to be cut accordingly. The end of rationing of food fats doesn't change the picture. Industrial fats are still very short. So keep turning in your used fats, won't you?...and speed the return of more soaps to your dealer's shelves.

DRAGONS HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE IN DOWNING EAGLES

Six-Footers Show Up Fairly Good Shots, Poor Handlers Of Ball In 54-14 Shellacking

The 1945-6 edition of the Warren Dragon basketball quintet made an impressive appearance in height but lacked coordination and good passwork as they opened the current season Friday night on the Beatty hardwood with a 54-14 whitewash over Youngsville's Eagles combination.

Scoring almost at will, the "Big Five" racked up a 14-3 first quarter margin as Youngsville failed to meet height qualifications in the section scholastic inaugural. Mentor J. A. Massa's second five did equally as well as the starting five, but they lacked height also.

Massa sent what he claimed the tallest team ever to emerge from the halls of Warren High onto the court Friday night. The starting five ranged from six-foot even to six foot, five inches. Jack Eaton, starting center loomed "way up" at 6'5" to pace his Dragon cohorts with a total of 14 points, of which ten were tallied in the third period.

All told, Coach Massa, in his second year as the Blue and White cage mentor, sent sixteen players onto the floor to engage Artie Amann's Eagles. The Youngsville boys failed to gain control of the ball, and they could score but three points in the first quarter, six in the second, one in the third, and four in the final period.

The Dragons appeared poor ball handlers in Friday's opener. They did, however, make good on numerous one-hand shots and were not forced to shoot beyond the circle.

The Massaman set up a zone at game start and continued the defense throughout the entire game. The local offense was concentrated mostly on fast break, but the Blue and Whites lacked the necessary speed and accuracy in passing to make good on the breaks.

The starting five was kept in the ball game only for little more than half of it, the second five exhibiting most of the second and fourth stanzas and the third five holding down in the final minutes.

Pete Juliano, turning in singles of 234, 211, and 204 and a total of 649, paced the local crew. For Titusville, Burgesson posted a 206 single and totaled 572.

Army Scores in First Four Minutes of Play

NEA Telephoto
Felix (Doc) Blanchard, star Army back, smashes through Navy's center for first touchdown of game at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium after only three minutes, 38 seconds of first quarter. Blanchard's line-crushing plays had carried the ball down the field in a rapid series of first downs.

THE NEW HOOVER CLEANER

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—The movies, in creating their two-dimensional ideas of huge Broadway night clubs, usually present lavish, lush decor which however attractive as pieces of Hollywood interior decoration are highly glamourized and not very authentic versions of the real thing... for most Broadway night clubs, notably the bigger ones, are either in basements or on second floors, and for the most part were designed originally for other purposes than presenting entertainment, and are not exactly ideal for viewing night club floor shows.

Nicky Blair, who ran the famed Paradise Restaurant which employed the most beautiful gals back in the thirties, is the new proprietor of one of the few Broadway clubs with any near semblance of the movies' idea of a New York night club... It's the huge Carnival, located in the Capitol Hotel at 50th Street and Eighth Avenue... seats a thousand persons, has a mammoth stage which also is its dance floor... four stories high which permits all sorts of indoor aerial display... and hasn't a pillar anywhere in the joint to keep a customer from seeing the show how far he is from the ringside.

The place is a glitteringly lavish Russell Patterson creation, whose delicate design makes it just a shade short of being garishly gaudy... Russell has given it an extremely pretty circus decor, with water color elephants and all the mood and color of a circus midway... there's a balcony, complete theatrical lighting and all sorts of legitimate stage effects possible in no other Broadway show saloon.

The show itself is what has been known in the trade for years as a "Nicky Blair production"... That means that Nicky had

John Murray Anderson design the entertainment... and John has fashioned a whopper... Nicky now employs more tall and terrific show girls—Anderson gave them the title of "bruisers"—and a larger chorus than any other Broadway club.

Nicky also has arranged, through Anderson's direction, a show which rivals anything ever seen in the larger Broadway clubs, with all sorts of variety acts, plus, as headliners, Martha Raye, who is being paid $6,500 a week, unprecedented on the Main Stem... She is attracting capacity crowds, which makes her salary justified in the minds of all concerned.

TO ME, John Murray Anderson supplies a better show during rehearsals than the real thing which the paying audience sees... He gives the show girls colorful nicknames... He calls one "Alcohol," because she reminds him of tall, cool scotch and soda... To one of the most beautiful girls in the line, whose hair became temporarily disarranged, Anderson called a warning not to let it get out of hand on opening night, because "you look like a drowned rat, dahling."

Anderson gave Mary Dowell, until then a beautiful but unpublished Diamond Horseshoe show girl, the nickname of "Stuttering Sam," because she stutters... She immediately began to get publicity when news of her highly literate but stutter-impaired discussions came to notice... She subsequently went to Hollywood as a writer, simply because Anderson by his nickname proved that Mary wasn't at all sensitive about her vocal deficiencies... No one apparently can cure this gal's stutter, but they can't stop her from talking, either... But to get back to Nicky Blair's new club and new show—both are great.

post. Art Juliano and Bob Gerardi captured, respectively, guard and left tackle posts on the second team, and Dave Lopez received honorable mention as a back... The Gillette Safety Razor Company, which, for the past seven years, has conducted the Cavalcade of Sports, looks forward to a great revival of public interest in sports... The Jamestown All-Stars meet the All-American girls' basketball team tonight in Jamestown High School, preceded by a prelim matching the Sheffield Penn Bottles against the Jamestown Jessup-Turners... Don McCullough and LeRoy Ishman, ex-Bradford High court aces, to the Jamestown High School All-Opponent varsity right end

-- Buy Victory Bonds Now --

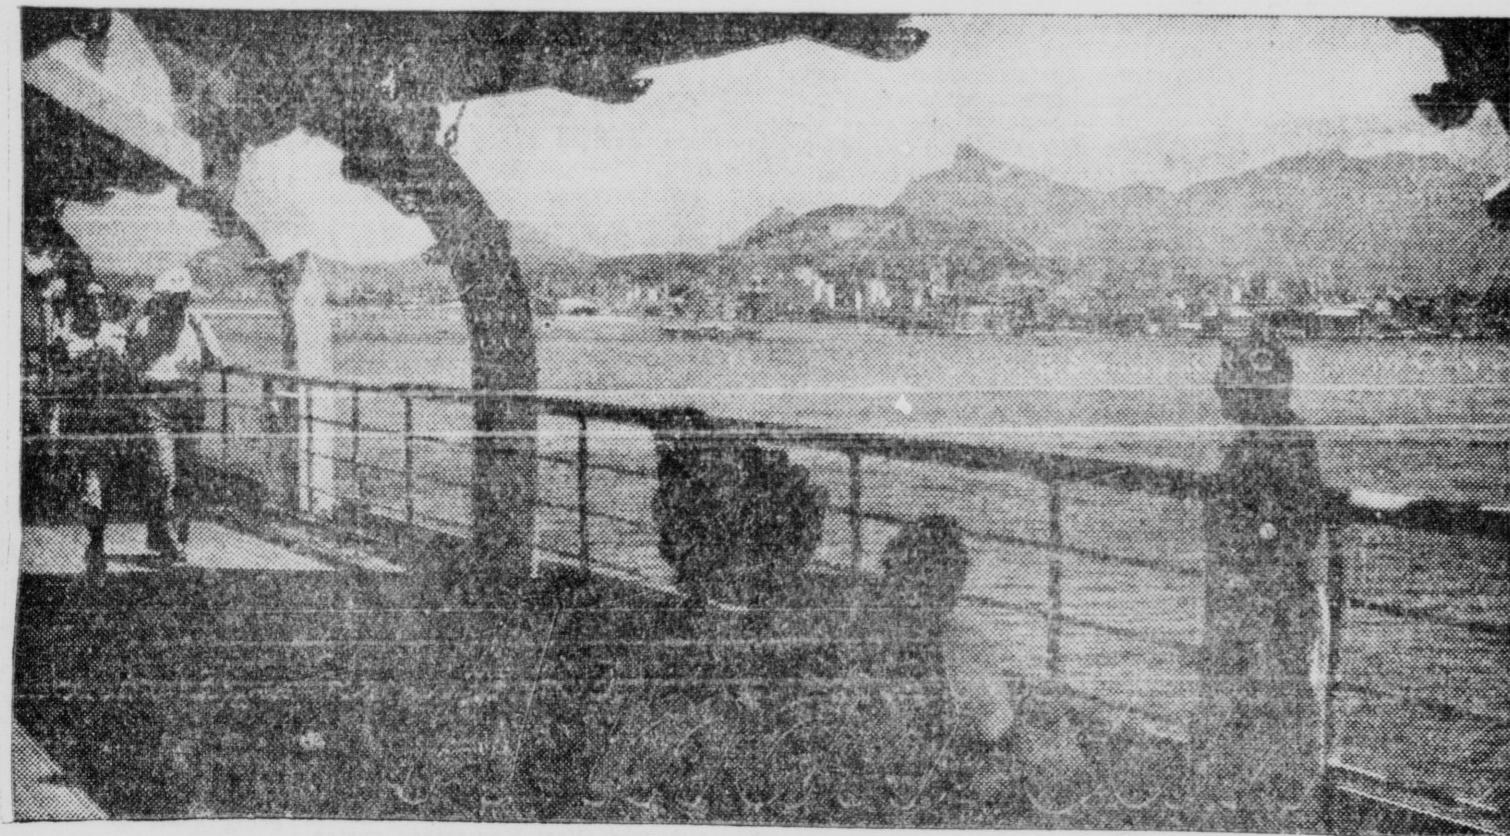

A man can plan . . .

1. I think of a rolling country, and the farm I'll own some day,
When I swap my wrench for a milking bench, and my lathe for a load of hay!

2. I've got my eye on a business I can purchase clear and free,
I'm saving my pay for the lucky day when I start to work for me!

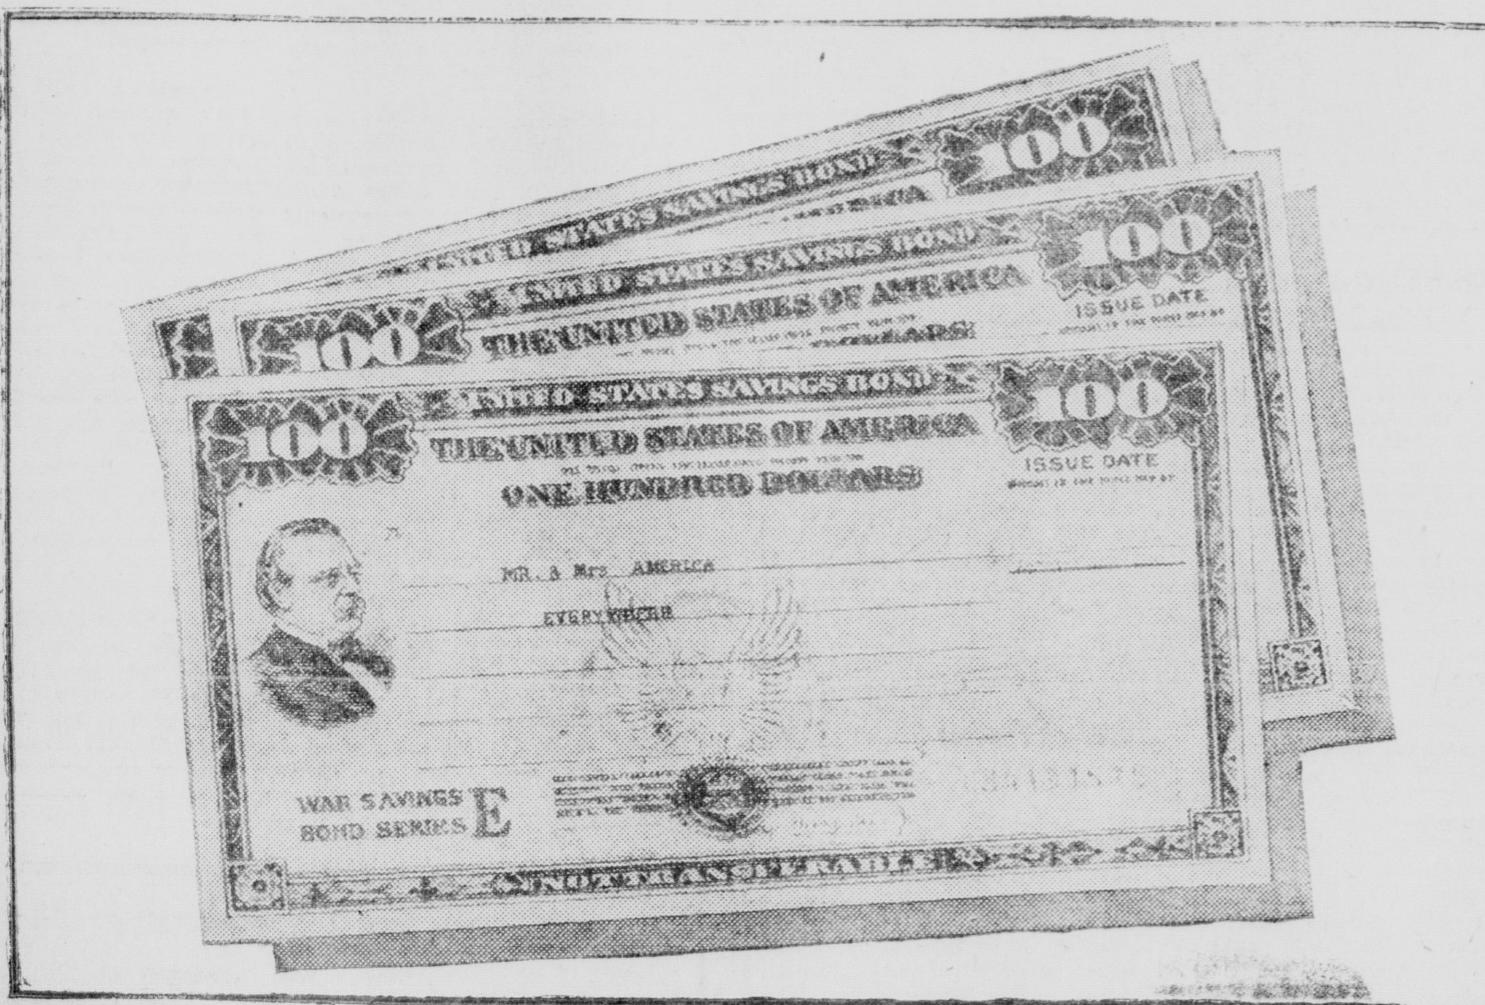

3. We're planning a year of travel, now the flags of war are furled,
And each Bond we keep is another leap in our trip around the world!

4. Some day I want to retire, I'm saving my cash for then,
For with Bonds around I won't be found in a home for broke old men!

. . . and his plans can come true!

5. Whatever your plans for the future you'd better buy Bonds by the score,
Your dollars won't shirk, they'll pitch in and work . . .
Each three bucks will bring you back four!

So buy 'em and buy 'em and buy 'em, and keep every Bond till it's due,
The more Bonds you buy will be more you've put by
For the day when your plans can come true!

CHARGE SHIP'S SKIPPER WITH INEFFICIENCY

Navy Formally Accuses Capt. Charles McVay III of Negligence in Loss of Cruiser

STILL BEING PROBED

Washington, Dec. 3—(AP)—The navy formally accused Capt. Charles B. McVay III today of negligence and culpable inefficiency in the loss of the 10,000-ton cruiser Indianapolis in the closing days of the war. He is a native of Ephrata, Pa.

The charges were prepared for the opening sessions of a general Washington Navy Yard to try the court martial convened at the 47-year-old son of a retired admiral.

Every man aboard the Indianapolis was a casualty when enemy action sent her to the bottom of the Philippine sea last July 30. Dead or missing totaled 880, the wounded 316.

Signed by Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, the charges made public for the first time as the seven-man military tribunal convened, accused McVay of:

1. "Through negligence suffering a vessel of the navy to be hazarded."

2. "Sulpable inefficiency in the performance of duty."

Under the first charge, the captain was accused specifically of neglecting "to cause zigzag course to be steered" through the area in which enemy submarines "might be encountered."

Under the second charge, he was accused of failing, after being informed that the ship was in a sinking condition, "to issue and see effected such timely orders as were necessary to cause said vessel to be abandoned, as it was his duty to do."

As the court-martial opened, counsel for Captain McVay challenged the first of the two charges—negligence in that the officer neglected to put the cruiser on a zigzag course through submarine-infested waters.

The defense said "the first charge fails to state an offense, it merely sets out a conclusion."

The challenge sent the court into private sessions and after a ten-minute conference Admiral Wilder Baker announced that the challenge had been rejected and the court-martial would proceed on the original charges.

Counsel for the accused, when asked if he was ready to proceed, requested a postponement of one day to complete the preparation of his case, and the court adjourned until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow.

As a result, the specifications set forth, "many persons on board perished with the sinking of said vessel."

The heavy cruiser—which had just completed a special, high speed run from San Francisco to Guam to deliver atomic bomb material—was traveling unescorted to Leyte in the Philippines when disaster struck.

Shortly after midnight on July 30 a terrific explosion blasted the Indianapolis. She sank within 15 minutes.

In an interview with Associated Press Reporter Morrie Landsberg in a Philadelphia hospital last August, McVay said his guess was (Turn to Page Nine)

GM Charged With Having Monopoly

Detroit, Dec. 3—(AP)—The CIO United Automobile Workers today asked U.S. Attorney General Tom Clark to investigate General Motors Corp. With a view to anti-trust prosecution, contending GM's control of a large part of the supply of fuel pumps for the industry constitutes a monopoly.

The request was made by R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, in a telegram which stated that "control of a single vital item gives General Motors Corp. a control over its competitors that is contrary to the public interest."

Some 225,000 General Motors employees are idle in a nation wide strike by the union to enforce its demand on GM for a 30 per cent wage increase within the corporation's present price structure.

SUBJUGATION OF SLOVAKIA IS RECOUNTED

Cynical Tale of Nazi Lies And Fifth Column Terrorism Unfolding at Nuremberg

THIRD WEEK STARTS

By WES GALLAGHER

Nuremberg, Dec. 3—(AP)—Hitler was not blunting when his threats of war in 1938 led England and France to sign the Munich pact, secret German war plans introduced at the international war crimes trial of 20 leading Nazis disclosed today.

Documents laid before the international military tribunal showed that the Munich pact—by which the Czech Sudetenland was handed over to the Nazis—was signed only two days before the date set by the German high command for four armies and the air force to be prepared for a blitz invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Not only were plans complete for the invasion of Czechoslovakia—with the help of Hungary—but the German air force expected France to join the fight and had prepared detailed plans for attack in the west, the evidence introduced by American prosecutors made plain.

Relaying Hitler's "unalterable decision to smash Czechoslovakia by military action" to commanders of the German army, navy and air forces, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, was quoted in an official directive as ordering that "its execution must be assured as from Oct. 1, 1938, at the latest."

Watertight plans for the Blitz invasion and an agreement that Hungary would join in the attack left little doubt at the trial that the cold-blooded invasion would have been carried out if England and France had not signed the Munich pact on Sept. 29, 1938—two days before the deadline set by the high command.

Citing the growth of the Nazi party into a powerful fifth column among the Sudeten Germans, an official Czechoslovak report filed with the court asserted that "few people knew that Henlein [Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader in Czechoslovakia] went on Hitler's payroll...in 1933."

Dealing that the evidence tells the "inside story" of the Munich pact, Prosecutor Alderman said the mobilizing of Germany's armed might was "a trap set by these people who are here on trial."

Another top-secret Hitler directive added to the mounting pile (Turn to Page Five)

Proposal To Resume Limited Parts Production Debated

By the Associated Press

A conditionally accepted General Motors proposal that the UAW resume limited parts production in idle plants was put squarely before the union's rank and file today after running into opposition from some strikers.

The Flint, Mich., Industrial Union Council, which claims to represent 40,000 GM strikers, asserted the return to work of some strikers would have the effect of "destroying morale" and might lead to "riot and bloodshed." It condemned and opposed the proposal, which, it charged, would "divide our forces."

Similar opposition came from the UAW-CIO Stronghold in Flint, which asserted the strikers intended to keep the GM plant there tightly closed "until our just demands are won."

BULLETIN

Detroit, Dec. 3—(AP)—President Truman intervened directly in the nationwide strike of General Motors workers to-day to Governor Martin urging that the state of Pennsylvania should take the lead in enacting veterans legislation.

TRAFFIC BLOCKED BY WRECK OF COAL CARS

Derry, Dec. 3—(AP)—Five cars carrying coal were upset on the Pennsylvania railroad's tracks near here today, blocking traffic three hours and scattering lumps of coal over the landscape.

Some nearby residents helped themselves to fuel.

Westbound traffic was most affected, including the 91 loaded and empty cars, moving from Pittsburgh to Altoona.

Auto Strikes Down Long-sought Bandit

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 3—(AP)

Struck down by a motor truck

while crossing a North Little Rock street, Mat Kimes, 39-year-old

Oklahoma badman who had been sought over a four-state area for nearly three months, was back in the hands of the law at Baptist

Hospital here today.

Kimes, wanted on a charge of bank robbery in Texas, inadvertently ended the long manhunt Saturday night when he stepped into the path of a poultry truck driven by Joe Chamberlain, 23-year-old former serviceman of North Little Rock.

The former convict, furloughed last July from the Oklahoma peni-murder, suffered a broken leg and severe injuries to his head and back. A pistol which dropped from his pocket at the scene of the accident first aroused suspicion.

At the hospital it was found that he carried $1,625.

Subsequent investigation, speci-

Co-operative Farm Credit Has Strong Financial Report

Celebrating 12 years of cooperative Farm Credit, more than 231 farmers and their wives attended the Annual Stockholders meetings of the Meadville Production Credit Association held in two sections, at Meadville on November 27 and at Union City on November 28.

Two farm directors were reelected for 3 year terms. They are Dave L. Crum, Meadville, Pa., Vocational Agricultural Advisor for Crawford County and James M. Hall, East Springfield, Erie County.

Lutherans To Aid Needy In Torn Europe

While a group of American Lutheran churchmen are still surveying the relief needs of Europe, plans are being announced in America for the gathering of huge quantities of used clothing to help people not reached by United Nations Relief. The Lutheran parishes of the county are ready to receive contributions and forward them quickly to the collecting warehouses to be designated by Lutheran World War Relief, Inc.

Contributions of good used clothing or new clothing and bedding can be left by members and friends at the churches where committees will sort, pack and ship what is collected. It is requested that only good useable clothing and bedding be given as there is little opportunity to mend and clean articles in Europe. If possible, wool clothing should be dry cleaned (though not pressed since it will be packed closely in bales or cartons) and that shoes have serviceable soles and good laces. Shoes should be tied together in pairs.

Movies and musical entertainment were provided and refreshments were served.

District IV Sells 201% of Bond Quota

Today District IV, comprising Mead and Grove Townships and Clarendon, won for itself a high place of honor among those communities in the country that have distinguished themselves by over subscribing their Victory Bond quotas.

A. W. Goal, district leader, Mrs. Charles A. Schneider, and their energetic workers are to be highly congratulated for turning in such an enviable record. At the same time Warren County can well be proud of the bond buyers in this district who have given ample proof of their patriotism and their wisdom in putting their money into the world's safest investment.

To date this is the record of Victory Bond sales in District IV: sales of "E" Bonds $5,631.25, sales of "G" Bonds $16,500. Total $21,131.25 IV's quota is $10,500 and the percent of quota reached is 201%.

Roadbed Is Blamed For Many Wrecks

One of the aftermaths of the wreck of Train 580 near Spring Creek one week ago last Saturday is a story to the effect that the roadbed of the railroad between Erie and Emporium is to blame. Inadequate ballast between the rails is said to be the trouble, according to a story in the Corry Journal.

An incident is related where a mail clerk had trouble with his "hook" with which mail is picked up on the fly. He failed to make the pick up at a non-stop station. The elevation of the devices used was checked but it later developed that the track was sagging at the point under a moving train to such a degree that the devices failed to operate. Railroad men are confident that top officials of the Pennsylvania system will soon give more attention to the improvement of trackage on the local division.

Al Merker of Corry, one of the men imprisoned in the mail car at Spring Creek for a couple of hours after the wreck was more seriously hurt than at first thought. It will be some weeks before he resumes his run.

It was the fourth wreck in which Merker had been shook up in 27 years of service. The first wreck was in the Erie yards shortly after he began work and the other three have taken place during the past three years, one at Clarendon, another at Renova and the toughest of all at Spring Creek.

"Jimmy" Cruickshank, of North Warren, who has served in the naval forces since leaving Warren some months ago has arrived home having been discharged. His many friends are extending the glad hand of welcome and the North Warren Minstrel committee had their hearts gladdened.

T/Sgt. S. Ludwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ludwick received his discharge from the air corps at Indiana Gap Nov. 23. He spent thirteen months overseas with the 20th air force in the Pacific area and was a central fire control man on a B-29.

Inspiring Oration Delivered At Elks Lodge of Sorrow

Several hundred members of Warren Lodge No. 223 and relatives of deceased members gathered in the auditorium of the club house Sunday afternoon at three o'clock to attend the impressive 53rd annual Lodge of Sorrow.

The exercises opened with an organ overture, after which the following program was presented with Exalted Ruler C. T. Berding presiding:

Ritual—Exalted ruler and chaplain.

Hymn—Miss Bonny Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Ray Smith.

Memorial ritual—Exalted ruler.

Roll Call—R. L. Ruhman, secretary.

Instrumental music—Mrs. Frederick Olson and Mrs. Emmett Morrison.

Altar service—Officers of the lodge.

Hymn—Miss Bonny Johnson.

Address—The Rev. William T. Lane, of the Emanuel Evangelical and Reformed church.

Instrumental Music—Mrs. Olson and Mrs. Morrison.

Presentation of Medal of Valor to the parents of Milton K. Hooven, a member of the order who died in the U. S. Service during the war, by H. J. Harvey, past exalted ruler.

Closing ceremonies—Exalted ruler and chaplain.

Announcement was made that a Medal of Valor and certificate had been sent to the lodge in Tucson, Arizona, to be presented to C. Emerson Metzger, father of Allan M. Metzger, who was the second member of the order to die in the service during the year.

The Rev. Lane, a member of the lodge, delivered a thought-provoking address on the subject "The Star of Life," declaring that the inspiration for the theme was gained through the star that hangs over the Elk altar. Referring to the members of the order who gave their lives for their country he said "We are gathered here today and each of us are thinking of our departed brothers of the first war and especially of the last, and of those who died while serving us and our fellowmen. In the true spirit of brotherly love we are thinking of the service that they rendered to humanity while still with us, and the acts of brotherly love that they showed and we are thinking especially of those closest to them who are left behind and we are saying to them in our real, true, sincere feeling of brotherly love 'Were I in your place,' and we identify ourselves with them, littler we step inside another person's skin! 'There, but for the Grace of God, Were I in your place.'

Concluding he said: "Yes, each one was a star which shone brightly and which is still shining as bright today. It is only the haze of distance that makes their light dim through faith, hope and above all through brotherly love, we can bring them close to us. Were I in your place—but for the Grace of God, a turn of the wheel, and we would be."

The lodge room was appropriately decorated for the occasion with a profusion of pine boughs, palms and basket bouquets.

Homes Badly Needed Here
But Construction Is Down

At the present time Warren has the greatest scarcity of homes and apartments for rent ever in its history. Times-Mirror advertisements reflect the fact that homes and apartments are so scarce that many are offering rewards to any person who can supply them with a home.

During the war years there has been practically no home building in either the city or in contiguous territory and numbers of homes have been arranged so that two families are occupying a house designed for but one family.

Contractors report that plans have been prepared for the erection of a number of new homes but that due to the scarcity of material and the high cost of construction scores have decided not to go through with their building plans.

W. T. Corbett, one of the progressive citizens of the city calls attention to the fact that Federal funds could be secured to relieve the situation if proper steps were taken. A Federal project would solve the problem and would provide much needed quarters for many. Mr. Corbett suggests that this matter should be given attention.

With hundreds of soldiers returning from overseas and marrying the girl of their choice more and more homes will be needed and the matter is one that should receive prompt attention, from the city leaders.

NEW RENTAL UNITS
MUST BE LISTED

Failure to register rental units being rented for the first time may subject the landlord to penalties and the girl of their choice more and more homes will be needed and the matter is one that should receive prompt attention, from the city leaders.

Rent regulations require that such units, even though they be only single rooms in a house that the landlord himself is renting, must be registered within 30 days after the date of rental. The Area Rent office is then required to review the case to determine if the rent is in line with the rent for comparable accommodations on March 1, 1942.

In the event that the Rent office finds it necessary to reduce a new rental unit properly registered the order takes effect at the beginning of the next rental period, and is not retroactive. Rent reductions for units not properly registered, however, are made retroactive to the date of first rental.

Local Women
To Be Honored
By Red Cross

Over 70 Pennsylvania women will be honored by the American Red Cross when their names will be inscribed on a national roll of honor in recognition of their having served 2,000 or more hours as nurses aides in hospitals throughout the State.

Three from Warren are among these honored few. They are Mrs. Joyce Blair, Mrs. Ruth L. Brown and Mrs. Mabel E. Proudfit. All have served over 2,000 hours. The list is headed by Mrs. Joseph Coltmann of Pittsburgh who is credited with over 6,000 hours service. Her name tops the list of 251 aides living in the Eastern Area, including 7 States and the District of Columbia. Her closest rival in Pennsylvania is Mrs. Samuel Fernberger of Philadelphia who is credited with 4,000 hours.

Runners-up in the Eastern Area are four aides with 5,000 hours each: Mrs. Lucille Ingram of Anderson, Indiana; Mrs. Julianne Kovach of Whiting, Indiana; Mrs. Hattie Kangisser of Cleveland and Mrs. Louise Cohen of Sitton, Va. Mrs. Ingram's service was cited as unusual because he totaled her 5,000 hours in only two years. Capped in August, 1944, she has been a resident aide on 24-hour call at Wakeman General Hospital since her husband was killed in Italy in 1944.

Wakeman Hospital at Camp Atterbury, Indiana, is the only general hospital in the United States that still has resident Red Cross Aides. During the war it gained an unusual record with as many as 65 resident volunteers a month.

Eleven women from Pennsylvania were credited with 3,000 or more hours and 63, including three from Warren, with 2,000 hours or more.

INTERNATIONAL MURDER, INC.

When the top Nazi war criminals were first rounded up, many people urged the Allies to "take 'em out and shoot 'em" and not waste time or dignify the culprits by giving them a formal trial. Fortunately the Allied governments did not heed these requests. And the wisdom of their decision is being strengthened daily as the Nuremberg trial progresses.

The trial not only sets the sensible precedent of regarding as a criminal and punishable offense the deliberate planning of the mass murder which is called war. It not only reveals to the Germans the infamy of the gang whom they chose to lead them. It also kills forever the argument, heard even recently in some quarters, that "Hitler did a lot of good things for the Germans" in the early years of his regime.

The prosecution has unfolded the Nazi war plans step by step, backward from Hitler's connivance with Japan to involve this country in war to the plots against Poland and Czechoslovakia and Austria, and the determination to reoccupy the Rhineland. And as one damning Nazi document after another has been produced, the last possible excuse for any of the Nazis' actions has disappeared.

But there no longer can be any question of his aims, or any good word for his accomplishments. The record shows that Hitler and the criminals now on trial simply picked up the secret, tentative preparations for war which the Junkers had begun soon after the 1918 armistice, and devoted their major energies toward bringing them to fruition, first by deceit and finally by open, arrogant defiance.

No trial in the history of crime and punishment has ever disclosed such a tale of cold-blooded, premeditated slaughter. Its full enormity would seem incredible if it were not for the detailed and secret records kept by these systematic butchers. They are records for all the world to ponder and remember, so that the symptoms may be recognized if another such murderous gang should ever again plot the conquest of a peace-loving world.

HOLIDAY TRAVEL

Christmas won't be entirely merry for those whose plans include train travel. At least, it won't be unless the traveler decides in advance that he is going to make the best of conditions that are almost certain to be crowded and uncomfortable.

Rail travel is at its wartime peak right now. Some 2,000,000 veterans will have arrived in east and west coast ports in November and December, headed for home and civilian life. There is an average of six rail moves for each serviceman during the redeployment process. And when the boys finally start for their home station, virtually all of them travel by train.

Some recent figures put out by the Pullman Co. give a rough idea of a wartime transportation job that is continuing at peak level more than three months after V-J Day. Since Pearl Harbor, Pullman has provided 98 billion passenger miles of service, 44 billion of which were performed for 33,000,000 troops in military movements. That's an average trip of 1300 miles for each serviceman carried.

About two-thirds of all these troops have traveled in sleeping cars. But today, more than 90 per cent of the homeward-bound veterans are being carried in sleepers. Some 895 sleeping cars were transferred from regularly scheduled trains to the military pool last July, and are still there. With the holiday rush just around the corner, 151,000 Pullman sleeping accommodations are available exclusively for the military. That leaves only 57,000 berths for the civilians.

Obviously this is going to drive a lot of would-be Pullman travelers up ahead into the day coaches, where they will sit on the laps and tread on the toes of people who intended to go by day coach in the first place. It is inevitable that a lot of corns and tempers are going to be bruised.

But there probably isn't anything to be done about it. For people are going to travel this Christmas. Thousands, released from war jobs, will be heading for the first family reunion in two or three years. Thousands more, who patriotically refrained from unnecessary travel during the war, will now take that long-promised trip.

It won't all be pleasant. But it won't be so bad if the holiday traveler will remember that the bulk of the best accommodations are reserved for the men and women who best deserve them.

Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It's hardly any time at all since I passed along the prediction that increasing desire for a recess, a vacation for the holidays, would drive Congress to enactment of some of the important pending legislation.

I could have saved some ink. The legislative log jam seems tighter than ever and is being threatened now with something that could prevent its being broken at all before Christmas. That is absenteeism.

It hasn't been long since Democratic Sen. Tydings of Maryland, who lives practically within commuting distance of the Capitol, berated his absent colleagues for not sticking more closely to the legislative halls until pending measures are cleared.

THESE absences on the floor aren't serious. Routine business can and is transacted through the floor leaders. It's when the absenteism runs over into the committees that business really bogs down.

There was an example of that only a few days ago when Rep. Dewey Short and a group of Republican colleagues discovered that absenteeism on the all-important House Military Affairs Committee left them with a controlling majority.

In a last-ditch fight to save the Universal Military Training Bill, Chairman Andrew May had to resort to parliamentary tactics to postpone the showdown until he could rush out wires to get the absentee members back to Washington.

It is that sort of thing that has the whole legislative program gathering dust.

If all the drive shafts in the battleship U. S. S. Missouri were placed together, their length would total one fifth of a mile. The ship can generate enough electricity to handle the domestic and industrial load of a city of 20,000 population.

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

In 1935

MERCHANTS in the city have launched the annual Christmas buying program with their stockrooms and shelves well filled with all types of merchandise.

C. Frederick Bartsch is planning to import from Canada hundreds of Christmas trees. This year, however, Bartsch will deal with spruce trees rather than hemlock.

Frederick Peterson, undertaker, and Charles Arnold, of the Warren Garage, proceeded from the woods here with the first deer to be shot on the first day of the official deer hunting season.

Last Saturday night, the Library Theatre, managed by George Sarvis, announced that it has just closed one of the most successful weeks in its history. Attendance was highest in history.

In 1935

At the reorganization meeting of the school board, Arthur G. Eldred was elected president to succeed M. Beshlin. W. F. Clinger was named vice-president, and Melvin Keller was added to the board as a new member.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ott have left for California after spending the summer here. After a short stay, they will embark for China, where Mr. Ott is a Standard Oil Company representative.

Numerous members of the Warren Kiwanis Club will go to Jamestown, where they will attend the Kiwanis-J Club dinner and hear Andy Kerr, head football coach at Colgate University.

Peter Fanaritis, of the Texas Lunch, brought in the largest buck of the first day of deer season. The buck had 10 points. Hunting in general was very poor.

A COMMONPLACE BOOK

Our friends in the Elysian fields of literature (and the playing fields of journalism) seem to have converged upon the laurel thicket with amazing unanimity in the last few weeks. How can we echo the mellifluous fatalism of our Shropshire friend, Alfred Housman—

We'll to the woods no more.
The laurels all are cut.
The bowers are bare of hay.
That once the muses wore.

The year draws in the day,
And soon will evening shut.
The laurels all are cut.
We'll to the woods no more.

—how can we echo such beautiful defeatism when several of our practicing lit'ry friends have not only hacked out great wreaths of laurel but jammed them uncen-tionously down on their own brows?

There's Russell Maloney, for instance. Who can depict at second hand that genial, starling man of letters? He reminds us simultaneously of Jake Falstaff, author of "Reini Kugl," and G. K. Chesterton. If he but wore a cape and had a minute goatee! Yet he would be exclusively Maloney; too amiable to be sardonic; too honest to be showily paradoxical; too intelligent to be merely witty; all in all, certainly one of New York's most ingratiating personalities in this year, 1945. Saturday evenings at 413 East 50th Street are something to be remembered. Successful people will be there, though Success is not the essential principle; colorful folk of the stage, of literature, of the arts; people whose conversation is provocative and stimulating. They all revolve around the great and friendly Maloney. On the Isle of Captivity in the Gulf of Mexico we once discovered Maloney and his lovely actress wife, Miriam Battista, diligently spotting ordinary seashells with a paintbrush to make them look like the rare Junonias; then planting them where gasping shell-collectors would be sure to pounce upon them.

Maloney's burst into heavy type took a rather curious form after his excellent New Yorker pieces; a profile, or rather a full front-and-rear of Hattie Carnegie in the November 12 issue of Life. Perhaps you read the article. We did, because it was Maloney's. Otherwise we should certainly have passed it by; since people like the famed Hattie are drably alike in their methods, their life stories, and especially in the illusion of difference with which they seek to surround themselves. We're surprised that the movies, which have full-lengthed everything from ballplayers to Chopin, haven't yet got around to dressmakers. They will. However, Maloney did a characteristic Maloney job, even with such unpromising material; readable, comprehensive, sufficiently ironic, and always astonishingly competent. If you happened to want to know about Hattie, he told you.

Then, after the great Maloney, comes the fabulous McNulty. Some golden evening, when the fevers of life have left us high on the barrens of old age, we shall write, in the manner of T. S. Eliot, a poem entitled "Maloney and McNulty." We promise you it will resound through the years like "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock." McNulty already shows signs of becoming a legend, not so much for his literary accomplishments as for his news-making gambols across the patient American landscape. The saga of McNulty would make hundreds of sticks of eight point type. No doubt that is part of the McNulty intention. But we'd rather not go into details until the doors are fastened, the blinds drawn, and the perfume of opium begins to drift toward the blackened rafters. Meanwhile we have that haphazard harlequin, McNulty himself (yet never without a method in his frenetics), whose tale, "Don't Scrub Off Those Names," has just appeared in The Best American Short Stories of 1945.

This is the successor to the famous O'Brien collections, now edited by Martha Foley and published by Houghton Mifflin. The story has to do with some of the Third Avenue characters McNulty has made his own; notably Grogan, the Horseplayer, and his friend, Clancy. There is a dialect which is supposed to be authentic, but may be plain McNulty. It's a good story;

Letters to the Editor

Warren, Pa.
Nov. 29th, 1945.

The Editor;
Times-Mirror,
City

Dear Sir:

The article in Wednesday's issue regarding the civic improvements was well written and showed a real study of different situations in Warren and every one of them should be done to keep our city up to date, clean and convenient.

It is just as necessary to paint a house every two or three years, or add improvement, as it is to build it; otherwise the house gradually declines in value and eventually falls apart. These things are known as "Up-keep" and "Improvements" in the language of business and if a house or community is to survive, they must be done.

The civic improvements mentioned in the article are of benefit to everyone in Warren and should, therefore, be paid by all tax-payers in Warren. These improvements should be first on the list!

Regarding the proposed athletic field as a War Memorial, this is a very fitting tribute to every service man or woman, living or dead. Some people have told me it would eventually pay for itself through revenue from gate receipts, etc. This would be fine and in a matter of a few years it would be paid for. This seems to be a business proposition, or a new investment, and the money for that should be raised by a sale of stock. Athletic events are of no benefit to everyone in Warren and therefore everyone in Warren should not be taxed for them.

I delight in some of the athletic contests and far be it from me to "throw cold water" on a park that would be a living memorial to those that helped keep the spirit of independence in the world above all.

When reading the article it recalled a broadcast on the Catholic Hour about two weeks ago in which the Priest said that conditions had developed in our Christian nation that if the majority of the people voted for a law or at least it's worth reading. McNulty, whom we last saw in New York a few months ago, is now in California, enacting a new version of The Babes in the Hollywood. In spite of not having entered a movie palace for a decade (or so we are told) he is now constructing a Third Avenue fable to be released in 1946 with Barry Fitzgerald as Grogan or some similar McNulty guy.

Next we come to that versatile journalist, Ben Williamson. If there is anything about the news-mongering routine Ben doesn't have at his fingertips, we just don't know about it. He was once the mainstay of one of America's best papers, the Cleveland Press; reporter, city editor, sports editor, managing editor of the NEA. He wrote an engaging daily column under the heading, "Among Friends." He became Contributing Editor of Time Magazine, writing first the section on The Press, then World Battlefronts. His story on Ernie Pyle was reprinted in Reader's Digest. This month he was, in Timely fashion, "upped" to Associate Editor, and to the very first section on The Presidency. We have been proud to know Ben for some twenty years now, aside from the fact that he's our brother-in-law.

"Lake Erie", by Harlan Hatcher, has shot up into the Best Seller lists. We were co-editors once of a very lit'ry magazine called The Talisman. Harlan was a tall, quiet fellow who wrote informal essays about old clothes. He is now head of the English Department and Dean of the

They really turned folks away at the "Breakfast in Hollywood" party at the Woman's Club Friday night under the auspices of Mrs. Albert Rockwell and her able entertainment committee.

A capacity crowd enjoyed the antics of Bill Rice as the widely renowned Tom Brenaman and were envious of K. M. Andrews' luck in receiving the orchid sent for the party by the bonafide Tom Brenaman from Hollywood.

A. C. Flick had the role of announcer presenting a group of Little Theatre players from Jamestown; the Men About Town Orchestra; Fred Printz, Jr., in a Danny Kaye take-off; Theresa Fino, vocalist; Si Davis and Fern Mostert, vocalists, with Mrs. Ed. Bell providing accordion accompaniment.

Interviewed during the evening were Mrs. Wallace Cowden, Mrs. Hugh Jamieson, Mrs. Spencer Myer and Mrs. William Hutchings.

Harriet Lind was the winner of the turkey awarded as a special prize of the evening.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PHILATHEA MEMBERS

Philathea Class of Calvary Baptist church will hold its annual meeting in the form of a tureen supper at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the church. Each one is asked to bring a tureen and sugar, all other items, including dishes, to be provided by the hostesses, Miss Janet Ahlgren, Mrs. Edith Nelson, Mrs. Evelyn Hagstrom, Mrs. Agnes Carlson. Members are also to bring ten-cent gifts for exchange, and are reminded that an offering will be taken for the Klingberg Children's Home in Connecticut.

STUDENT RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY

Feature numbers in the weekly student recital at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday night were a saxophone solo by Ralph Brown; vocal solos by Gladys Johnson and Mary Mangus, and a clarinet solo by Jerry Aurillo.

Pupils heard in piano selections Director Betty Rice will put her cast of "Nine Girls" through its dress rehearsal at 8:30 this evening at the Woman's Club, with members of the Warren High School Dramatic Club as guests of the Post-Graduate Medical School. They will return next weekend.

It will interest many friends of Mrs. W. E. Rice, Maple Place, to know that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Stubbs, have come here from Jamestown to make their home in Warren.

Mrs. Ardell Saylor, Redwood street, is spending the week in Cleveland, O., visiting her sister, Mrs. K. E. Carlson.

Friends will be pleased to know that Harold Ross, 307 Hazel street, has been taken home from Warren General Hospital.

Mrs. Marion Lubold, 14 Glade avenue, fell while coming out of the United Brethren church on Sunday and received a laceration on the right side of her face and forehead that required emergency treatment at Warren General Hospital.

This Friday, members will have their regular supper at six o'clock and lodge at eight.

DRAGONS HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE IN DOWNING EAGLES

Six-Footers Show Up Fairly Good Shots, Poor Handlers Of Ball In 54-14 Shellacking

The 1945-6 edition of the Warren Dragon basketball quintet made an impressive appearance in height but lacked coordination and good passwork as they opened the current season Friday night on the Beatty hardwood with a 54-14 whitewash over Youngsville's Eagles combination.

Scoring almost at will, the "Big Five" racked up a 14-3 first quarter margin as Youngsville failed to meet height qualifications in the section scholastic inaugural. Mentor J. A. Massa's second five did equally as well as the starting five, but then lacked height also.

Massa said what he claimed the tallest team ever to emerge from the halls of Warren High into the court Friday night. The starting five ranged from six-foot even to six foot, five inches. Jack Eaton, starting center, loomed "way up" at 6'6" to pace his Dragon cohorts with a total of 14 points, of which ten were tallied in the third period.

All told, Coach Massa, in his second year as the Blue and White cage mentor, sent sixteen players onto the floor to engage Artie Armann's Eagles. The Youngsville boys failed to gain control of the ball, and they could score but three points in the first quarter, six in the second, one in the third, and four in the final period.

The Dragons appeared poor ball handlers in Friday's opener. They did, however, make good on numerous one-hand shots and were not forced to shoot beyond the circle.

The Massamen set up a zone at game start and continued the defense throughout the entire game. The local offense was concentrated mostly on fast break, but the Blue and Whites lacked the necessary speed and accuracy in passing to make good on the breaks.

The starting five was kept in the ball game only for little more than half of it, the second five exhibiting most of the second and fourth stanzas and the third five holding down in the final minutes.

Tony Vescio, substitute guard, recorded ten points to place second behind Jack Eaton in the scoring. Forward Al Babcock was third with nine. Spencer and Johnson turned in 7 and 4 points, respectively, for the Eagles.

Two games this week will bring the Dragons against much stronger opposition, and whether or not Massa has a winning combine will probably be decided. On Tuesday night here, the Dragons engage a fast St. Marys Dutchmen outfit, and on Friday they travel to Titusville.

Russell High Cagers Open 1945-6 Season

Russell High School's Black and White batters opened their current basketball campaign at the local high school by defeating the Alumni, 22-7, under the watchful eye of Mentor Allen Nelson.

In the preliminary, the girls' Alumni defeated the High School girls, 16-15, in a very close contest.

In the main game, neither team was able to score in the first stanza, but the High team came through in the second to take a substantial lead which they held during the entire game. The Russell girls' failure to tally in the second quarter contributed to their loss.

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—The movies, in creating their two-dimension ideas of huge Broadway night clubs, usually present lavish, lush decors which however attractive as pieces of Hollywood interior decoration are highly glamourized and not very authentic versions of the real thing... for most Broadway night clubs, notably the bigger ones, are either in basements or on second floors, and for the most part were designed originally for other purposes than presenting entertainment, and are not exactly ideal for viewing night club floor shows.

Nicky Blair, who ran the famed Paradise Restaurant which employed the most beautiful gals back in the thirties, is the new proprietor of one of the few Broadway clubs with any near semblance of the movies' idea of a New York night club... It's the huge Carnival, located in the Capitol Hotel at 50th Street and Eighth Avenue... seats a thousand persons, has a mammoth stage which also is its dance floor... four stories high which permits all sorts of indoor aerial display... and hasn't a pillar anywhere in the joint to keep a customer from seeing the show however far he is from the ringside.

The place is a glitteringly lavish Russell Patterson creation, whose delicate design makes it just a shade short of being garishly gaudy... Russell has given it an extremely pretty circus decor, with water color elephants and all the mood and color of a circus midway... there's a balcony, complete theatrical lighting and all sorts of legitimate stage effects possible in no other Broadway show saloon.

The show itself is what has been known in the trade for years as a "Nicky Blair production"... That means that Nicky had

John Murray Anderson design the entertainment... and John has fashioned a whopper... Nicky now employs more tall and terrific show gals—Anderson gave them the title of "bruisers"—and a larger chorus than any other Broadway club.

Nicky also has arranged, through Anderson's direction, a show which rivals anything ever seen in the larger Broadway clubs, with all sorts of variety acts, plus, as headliners, Martha Raye, who is being paid $6,500 a week, unprecedented on the Main Stem... She is attracting capacity crowds, which makes her salary justified in the minds of all concerned.

TO ME, John Murray Anderson supplies a better show during rehearsals than the real thing which the paying audience sees... He gives the show gals colorful nicknames... He calls one "Alcohol" because she reminds him of a tall, cool scotch and soda... To one of the most beautiful girls in the line, whose hair became temporarily disarranged, Anderson called a warning not to let it get out of hand on opening night, because "you look like a drowned rat, dahling."

Anderson gave Mary Dowell, until then a beautiful but unpublicized Diamond Horseshoe show girl, the nickname of "Stuttering Sam," because she stutters... She immediately began to get publicity when news of her highly literate but stutter-imped discussions came to notice... She subsequently went to Hollywood as a writer, simply because Anderson by his nickname proved that Mary wasn't at all sensitive about her vocal deficiencies... No one apparently can cure this gal's stutter, but they can't stop her from talking, either... But to get back to Nicky Blair's new club and new show—both are great.

BEHIND THE LINES

groom five men who tower over six foot into an unbeatable combine, although it is quite possible. Mentor Joseph A. Massa has a task on his hands to develop his protégés into what people expect of them. Friday's opener showed the Dragons as quite good shots, fairly goon on the zone defense, but very poor ball handlers, which is probably the most important of all three. It will take a lot of plain hard work to knead this quintet into a well-oiled and well-working machine.

This year's crew is without a doubt one of the tallest high school teams ever to come out of Warren High. We say that not in any capacity of being official on the note, but most fans are agreeable to the fact. And it's a tough assignment to get the big men working together. For instance, Hank Iha, one of the best known college cage coaches in the nation, spent many an hour on his towering, 7-foot Bob Kurland, the Oklahoma A. & M. ace. Kurland was tops last season, and cage followers throughout the nation expect equal results from him this year. The Midwesterners open their big-time slate come Saturday night at Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium. Opposing the Oklahomans will be Grove Washabaugh's Westminster Titans, with whom Dean Nelson is a starter. Nelson earned his letter with the Titans last season after making a court name for himself here several years ago under Heinie Kolpen.

Joe Massa will take a number of his cagers to watch next Saturday's Buffalo encounter, and from that game the local lads should gain quite a bit of knowledge on how a big player should play. In the preliminary game of Saturday's doubleheader will be Carthius and Cornell.

A man can plan...

1. I think of a rolling country, and the farm I'll own some day,
When I swap my wrench for a milking bench, and my lathe for a load of hay!

2. I've got my eye on a business I can purchase clear and free,
I'm saving my pay for the lucky day when I start to work for me!

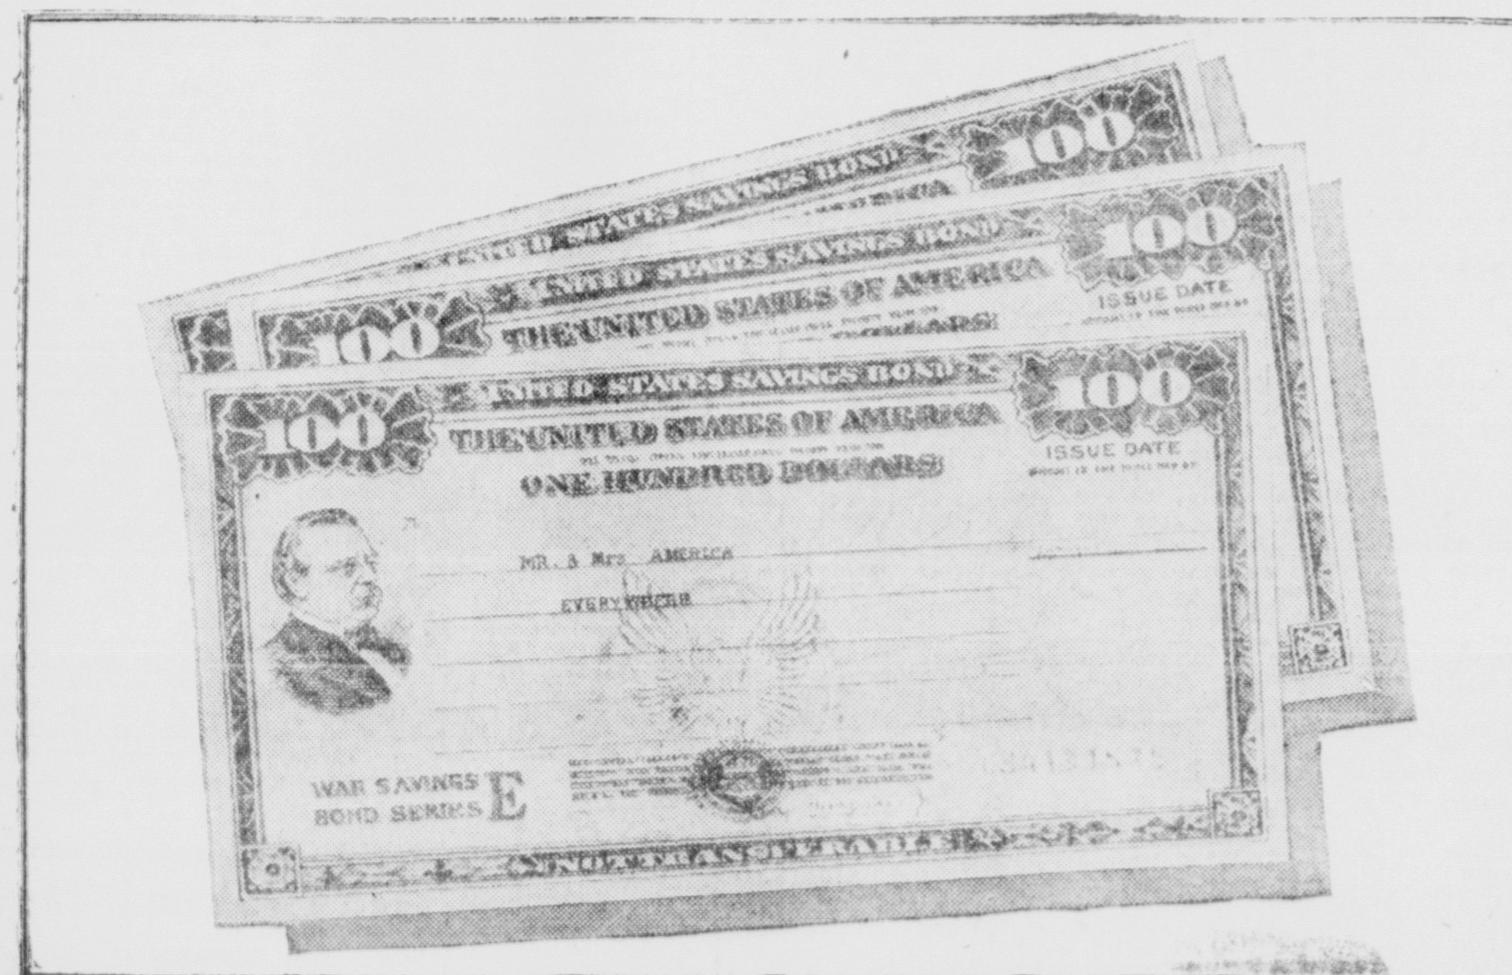

3. We're planning a year of travel, now the flags of war are furled,
And each Bond we keep is another leap in our trip around the world!

4. Some day I want to retire, I'm saving my cash for then,
For with Bonds around I won't be found in a home for broke old men!

...and his plans can come true!

5. Whatever your plans for the future you'd better buy Bonds by the score,
Your dollars won't shirk, they'll pitch in and work ...
Each three bucks will bring you back four!

So buy 'em and buy 'em and buy 'em, and keep every Bond till it's due,
The more Bonds you buy will be more you've put by
For the day when your plans can come true!

VICTORY BONDS—TO HAVE AND TO HOLD!

Townships To Receive Checks From Forest Lands in County

G. Harold Wagner, Auditor General of Pennsylvania, has approved payment of $105,542.40 to forty counties in the Commonwealth and 274 townships in those counties, in which State or National forest lands, or both, are located. The payments cover the fiscal year ending May 31, 1945.

The payments are made in lieu of taxes, as provided for by the Legislature, with the rate of compensation also fixed by Legislative Act. The funds are earmarked for "county, school, township and road purposes". All lands owned or classified by the Commonwealth or the Federal Government, and held or administered as forest reserves, auxiliary forest reserves, or for the purpose of preserving and perpetuating a portion of the original forests of Pennsylvania, and preserving and maintaining the same as public places and parks, are included.

The aggregate annual payment to the Commonwealth ales to the counties, in the townships located in the counties, is five cents per acre. The county receives one cent, and the remaining four cents are equally divided between the school district and the road district.

DON'T COUNT LOSSES UNTIL THEY HATCH

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Bert Lebar, treasurer of the American Contract Bridge League, is sometimes accused of optimistic bidding, but he usually comes through with a startling play that solves his problem. He played today's hand at the Mayfair Bridge Club in New York recently. The bidding shown is actually the way it happened, and when the dummy went down, Lebar was not too happy about it.

BOWLING

ELKS LEAGUE

The Nine-O Garage and South Side Market combines emerged from Friday's Elks League action with respective four-point wins over Penn Furnace and Kirbergers.

W. Hoagvall, G. Faul, and E. Hoagvall were high in the singles department for 9-0, turning in singles of 210, 209, and 207, respectively. Both Hoagvalls totaled 557, and Faul added up a 551. For the losing Penn Furnacers, Ostergard singled 186, and Fredericks totaled 517. In the other match, Christie recorded a 204 single and a 521 total to lead the S. S. Market, and high scores for the losers were rolled by McIntyre, with a 184 single, and Morelli, with a 502 total.

Saturday's matches between Keystone Printers and Kirbergers and Nine-O Garage and Geracinas were postponed. No date has been set for the re-match.

He saw that there was a possibility of getting rid of one of the spades on the good diamond; then if the heart finesse worked, he might pull the contract out of the fire. But when East trumped the diamond king, it looked hopeless. East came back with the king of clubs and Lebar won. Deciding that he would go down to many on the hand if the heart finesse failed, he did not go over to dummy's ace of spades, but simply laid down the ace of hearts—and West's king fell. Now all he had to do was to lead a heart to dummy's ten, lead the jack of clubs and play East for the queen. The losing spades could be discarded on dummy's good clubs.

1st Lutheran Cub Pack Has Fine Meeting

A Cub circus with "wild cage" animals, trained horses and giraffes, clowns and broken down cars and the presentation of the Cub Pack Charter were features of the first Pack meeting of the First Lutheran Church Pack No. 12. The meeting was held Friday evening at the First Lutheran church with a large turn out of parents and Cubs who witnessed the program the Cubs had developed during the last six weeks under the leadership of Cubmaster Karl G. Timm; Den Mothers, Mrs. Agnes Kornreich, Mrs. Bertha Ashbaugh, Mrs. Doris E. Peterson, and Den Chiefs Richard Christenson and Wesley Christenson.

As the boys assembled with their parents they prepared an exhibit of the handicraft work they had done during the month which included carved letter openers, circus wagons and other items in harmony with the Cub Pack Circus theme.

During the parents part of the meeting each of the members of the Pack Committee reported on the development of his own department. Each Den presented its stunt which was developed along the circus idea.

During the achievement council part of the meeting the Charter for the Pack was presented to Rev. E. K. Rogers, pastor of the Church by Chester R. Seymour, representing the Organization and Extension Committee of the Warren County Council, Boy Scouts of America. The Pack Committee and Den Mothers were then charged with their responsibilities following which Rev. Rogers presented membership cards to I. S. Brumagin, chairman; Rev. H. A. Rinard, Alfred L. Lauffenburger, Dr. C. J. Frantz, W. H. Wood, K. N. Greenlund, and Chester C. Park.

Chairman I. S. Brumagin then introduced Cubmaster Karl G. Timm and after charging him with his responsibilities presented him with a membership card.

Cubmaster Timm then called the Cubs to the front of the meeting room and presented each of them with a membership card and Bobcat badge. Several of the boys have already secured uniforms. Charter members of the Pack are: Donald Koebler, Warner Ahlgren, Frank Smith, Melvin Peterson, John Catillion, John Parks, Frank Ashbaugh, Charles Johnson, Frederick Newmaker, Richard Newmaker, Bruce Kuhre, John Timm, Ronald Wood, Stuart Konreich, David Glassman, Ralph Pederson and Richard Helmreich.

With 107,220 acres of National forest lands Warren County will receive $1,072.20. The eight townships in which the lands are located, and the amount each township will receive for school and road purposes are Cherry Grove, $884.28; Corydon, $208.96; Kinua, $823.28; Limestone, $143.08; Mead, $363.56; Pleasant, $425.56; Sheldie, $843.40; Watson, $705.68.

Bert Lebar, treasurer of the American Contract Bridge League, is sometimes accused of optimistic bidding, but he usually comes through with a startling play that solves his problem. He played today's hand at the Mayfair Bridge Club in New York recently. The bidding shown is actually the way it happened, and when the dummy went down, Lebar was not too happy about it.

W. Hoagvall, G. Faul, and E. Hoagvall were high in the singles department for 9-0, turning in singles of 210, 209, and 207, respectively. Both Hoagvalls totaled 557, and Faul added up a 551. For the losing Penn Furnacers, Ostergard singled 186, and Fredericks totaled 517. In the other match, Christie recorded a 204 single and a 521 total to lead the

S. S. Market, and high scores for the losers were rolled by McIntyre, with a 184 single, and Morelli, with a 502 total.

Saturday's matches between

Keystone Printers and Kirbergers

and Nine-O Garage and Geracinas were postponed. No date has been set for the re-match.
